Inside this issue:

Have you ever thought of the chain of command that gave the dictator a firm grip on the Eritrean People and their way of life?

No single dictator can rule a country with an iron fist without some helpers. The most powerful and immediate helpers are the four advisors of the President. They include his favorites Yemane Gebreab and Hagos Kisha. The four have emerged to be the most powerful by virtue of being the right hand of the dictator and by the fact that they also serve as gatekeepers for the Dictator.

The only officials of the regime who can see the dictator without these gatekeepers are the generals who are in charge of the five army divisions. Even the regime's ministers need Yemane Gebreab's assistance to have an audience with the dictator.

The single most important reason why the military commanders have a lot more power over the ministers is because they are the custodians of the entire Eritrean youth population on behalf of the dictator. We all know Eritrean youth are serving in the military or they are residing as refugees elsewhere. From the generals the chain of command extends down to the colonels and majors in charge of districts and zobas respectively. Thus one could argue that Eritrea is under undeclared military rule.

True to its militaristic characteristics, the regime has continued to totally ignore intellectuals and what they can offer. It has co-opted a few intellectuals. Araya Tsegay is one of the co-opted intellectuals who as the head of the Housing Bank advised the regime to nationalize all foreign currency accounts in Eritrea. Someday such blind servants of the Dictator will be asked to account for their blunders.

Again, due to its militaristic structure, the regime is not interested to revamp the idea of the National Parliament and entrust it to draft and pass laws. There have been no new laws except those left by Ethiopian rulers and the Italians before them. Instead, the Dictator's words are the laws of the country. Since his laws are not written, all officials of the regime also make their own laws for their jurisdictions right down to the Zoba administrator. Thus Erit-

Who is the opposition of the opposition?

“When you have the worst enemy of ones country like Issayas and his PFDJ helpers, who needs another opposition? It seems that there are some people who are either paid disorganizers or unable to see the big picture and focus on the only enemy of the Eritrean people, Issayas' dictatorship.”

... The chain of command ...(continued from page 1)

rea has been a lawless jungle and what is there changed without any notice or warning to the people. One day hard working Eritreans had foreign currency accounts in their beloved country, next day they found them to be worthless Nakfas.

You may ask as to who the Dictator's helpers in the Diaspora are. They could be community, youth and women's groups, churches, mosques, even restaurants and other businesses. How can one determine whether or not for example a church is the Dictator's helper? If it helps to raise funds for the hated dictatorship, if it allows announcements to be made in the church on the regime's or its surrogate organizations' activities but does not give the same access to organizations critical to the regime. If it encourages its members to participate in the regimes activities, it presents itself as the regime's helper. By so doing such a church proves to be the Dictator's helper in suppressing our aspirations and dreams for a prosperous and democratic Eritrea.

Close to home, right here in Toronto, we all know of the existence of the National Union of Eritrean Women and the Eritrean Canadian Association of Ontario and at the core of the rotten apple are members of EFDJ, Toronto branch. The sole purpose of the existence of these organizations is to help the dictator have a firm grip on the Eritrean people.
